Boston, MA (PRWEB) March 16, 2009 -- Treadstone 71 announced today the release of a new set of services crafted to rapidly identify and reduce complexities while preparing for audit and assessment activities. Created in response to the ever increasing need to remove technical obstacles and cultural barriers, the Treadstone 71 Information Risk and Trusted Advisory Services (IRTAS) very quickly provides customers an unadulterated view of their posture providing timely intelligence on how to effectively mature operational inefficiencies while translating compliance into actionable solutions.

"IRTAS provides a straight talking, no nonsense approach for CIOs, CISOs, and other corporate leaders who wish to improve their security posture without long, drawn out and expensive engagements," noted, Jeff Bardin, Principal for Treadstone 71. "We don't come into your environment looking to setup shop for years to come, continued Bardin, our focus is to get your program aligned and realigned providing you the tools and knowledge to move to a new level of effectiveness."

IRTAS uses a cooperative assurance methodology providing the most effective, complete and rapid assessment of business risk that we guarantee will noticeably reduce capital and operational costs. The IRTAS 'boots on the ground' approach ensures that accurate information is gathered and analyzed with a sense of urgency.

Bardin explained that "while serving as a CIO and CISO, I have seen many consultants selling services without the proper experience, trying to cut their teeth on my dollar. I have walked many miles in the shoes of those we serve and understand what it takes to build trust and protect what is most important."

Treadstone 71 realizes this need for clients to provide actionable solutions at the lowest cost. IRTAS uses an integrated approach to assessment preparation, analysis and determination through the use of a battle proven framework to consolidate, integrate, standardize, operationalize and optimize your people, process and technology, and most importantly, your bottom line.
